Excerpt from Martin Luther King Jr.’s Letter from the Birmingham City Jail

You may well ask, Why direct action? Why sit-ins, marches, etc.? Isn't negotiation a better path?" You are exactly right in your call for negotiation. Indeed, this is the purpose of direct action. Nonviolent direct action seeks to create such a crisis and establish such creative tension that a community that has constantly refused to negotiate is forced to confront the issue. It seeks so to dramatize the issue that it can no longer be ignored. I just referred to the creation of tension as a part of the work of the nonviolent resister. This may sound rather shocking. But I must confess that I am not afraid of the word tension. I have earnestly worked and preached against violent tension, but there is a type of constructive nonviolent tension that is necessary for growth. Just as Socrates felt that it was necessary to create a tension in the mind so that individuals could rise from the bondage of myths and half-truths to the unfettered realm of creative analysis and objective appraisal, we must see the need of having nonviolent gadflies to create the kind of tension in society that will help men rise from the dark depths of prejudice and racism to the majestic heights of understanding and brotherhood. So the purpose of the direct action is to create a situation so crisis-packed that it will inevitably open the door to negotiation. We, therefore, concur with you in your call for negotiation. Too long has our beloved Southland been bogged down in the tragic attempt to live in monologue rather than dialogue...

We must use time creatively, and forever realize that the time is always ripe to do right. Now is the time to make real the promise of democracy, and transform our pending national elegy into a creative psalm of brotherhood. Now is the time to lift our national policy from the quicksand of racial injustice to the solid rock of human dignity.

__________________________

i constructive – serving a useful purpose

ii bondage – slavery

iii unfettered – not limited or restrained by anyone or anything

iv appraisal – a careful assessment and consideration of something

v gadfly – an annoying person, especially one who provokes others into action by criticism; a fly that bites other animals

vi pending – waiting to be decided or dealt with vii elegy – a sad funeral song or poem for the dead

viii psalm – a sacred song or hymn
1. As explained by Martin Luther King Jr., what is the purpose of nonviolent direct action?

   A  It creates an environment of tension in which no one is willing to negotiate.
   B  It prevents negotiations from taking place.
   C  It dramatizes an issue so that it can no longer be ignored.
   D  It delays negotiation until people are ready to confront an issue.

2. Communities in the South refused to address the problems of inequality and racism. What solution did Martin Luther King Jr. propose?

   A  take violent direct action so that people are forced to pay attention
   B  take nonviolent direct action so that the problem cannot be ignored
   C  wait for community leaders to agree to peaceful negotiations
   D  work and preach against violent tension within communities

3. Thinkers and leaders other than Martin Luther King Jr. have created tension to bring about change. What evidence from the passage supports this statement?

   A  “Just as Socrates felt that it was necessary to create a tension in the mind so that individuals could rise from the bondage of myths...”
   B  “You may well ask, Why direct action? Why sit-ins, marches, etc.? Isn't negotiation a better path? You are exactly right in your call for negotiation.”
   C  “I just referred to the creation of tension as a part of the work of the nonviolent resister. This may sound rather shocking. But I must confess that I am not afraid of the word tension.”
   D  “Too long has our beloved Southland been bogged down in the tragic attempt to live in monologue rather than dialogue...”

4. Which audience did Martin Luther King Jr. most likely target when writing this letter?

   A  people who supported his work
   B  people who lived in the North
   C  people who fought for civil rights
   D  people who questioned his methods

5. What is the main idea of this excerpt from King’s letter?

   A  Without violent tension and fighting, change would be too slow.
   B  Nonviolent direct action is needed to bring about change.
   C  Negotiation is a better method than direct action to cause change.
   D  Socrates also used nonviolent tension to bring about change.
6. Read the following sentences: “Nonviolent direct action seeks to create such a crisis and establish such creative tension that a community that has constantly refused to negotiate is forced to confront the issue. It seeks so to dramatize the issue that it can no longer be ignored.”

As used in this sentence, what does the word “dramatize” mean?

A make a situation seem more important or serious
B make a situation seem funny and less important
C pay no attention to a situation, problem, or issue
D write a play or a musical about a situation

7. Choose the answer that best completes the sentence below.

Martin Luther King Jr. preached against violent tension, _____ believed strongly in nonviolent tension.

A then
B so
C but
D like

8. According to Martin Luther King Jr., why do we need nonviolent gadflies in society?

______________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________
9. Explain why Martin Luther King Jr. mentioned the ancient Greek philosopher Socrates in his letter. Support your answer using information from the letter.

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________

10. How did Martin Luther King Jr. view the state of the nation when he was writing this letter? Refer to the second paragraph to support your answer.

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________

______________________________________________________________________
Teacher Guide & Answers

Passage Reading Level: Lexile 1220

1. C  It dramatizes an issue so that it can no longer be ignored.

2. B  take nonviolent direct action so that the problem cannot be ignored

3. A  “Just as Socrates felt that it was necessary to create a tension in the mind so that individuals could rise from the bondage of myths…”

4. D  people who questioned his methods

5. B  Nonviolent direct action is needed to bring about change.

6. A  make a situation seem more important or serious

7. C  but

8. Suggested answer: According to Martin Luther King Jr., we need nonviolent gadflies to create the kind of tension in society that will help men rise from prejudice and racism to understanding and brotherhood.

9. Suggested answer: Martin Luther King Jr. used the example of Socrates to emphasize the point that constructive nonviolent tension is necessary for growth. Just as Socrates felt that it was necessary to create a tension in the mind so that people could rise from myths and half-truths in order to reach creative analysis and objective appraisal, Martin Luther King Jr. argues that tension must be created in society so that men will be able to rise from the depths of prejudice and racism to the heights of understanding and brotherhood. Thus, Martin Luther King Jr. notes the beliefs of Socrates regarding tension to support his argument that tension can be productive and help bring about needed change.

10. Suggested answer: It is clear that Martin Luther King Jr. perceived the nation as being in a gloomy state when he uses the phrase "our pending national elegy," which suggests that the nation is facing a death of sorts, most likely a death of its own principals and promise. In addition, he is also critical of the national policy which he locates as being in “the quicksand of racial injustice,” which conveys the sense that this national policy is not stable or solid, as it can easily fall apart due to its racial injustice. However, Martin Luther King Jr. also seemed optimistic, giving hope that the promise of democracy can be made real and that the pending national elegy can be transformed into a creative psalm of brotherhood, as the funeral song can be transformed into a sacred song of brotherhood. Furthermore, he also states that the national policy can be lifted from the “quicksand of racial injustice” to the “solid rock of human dignity.” Hence, Martin Luther King Jr. was optimistic that the promise of democracy could be realized if the opportunity was taken to do what is right.